A "Top Doc" three years running, Dr. Michael Eisemann is a Board Certified Plastic and Reconstructive Surgeon and a Board Certified Ear, Nose and Throat, Head and Neck Surgeon who has been serving Houston and its surrounding cities and counties for more than 20 years. Operating out of the Eisemann Cosmetic DaySurgery Center in the Texas Medical Center, Dr. Eisemann specializes in aesthetic and reconstructive breast surgery, liposuction and body contouring, breast enhancement and augmentation, and nasal and facial plastic surgery.

A past president of the Houston Society of Plastic Surgeons and fellow of the American College of Surgeons, Dr. Eisemann has been selected as a top doctor for the past three years. With a nationally accredited, full operating room, most of the surgery Dr. Eisemann performs is done under regional anesthesia, meaning the patient breathes on their own without the use of a mask or respirator, which decreases the risk of complications.

While he performs many liposuction and breast augmentation surgeries, Dr. Eisemann also does many facial surgeries as well as nasal surgery and secondary surgery, the repairing of previous surgeries that failed to produce satisfactory results. After a surgery internship at the Yale-New Haven Hospital, Dr. Eisemann served as chief resident of Otolaryngology – Head and Neck Surgery – at the Johns Hopkins Hospital and did his Plastic Surgery residency at Baylor College of Medicine. He is a member of the American Society of Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery.
